Urban Planner

2005 - 2006

Took effective roles in strategic and spatial planning for urban areas in different scales, including metropolitan districts. Produced masterplanning and urban design solutions, especially on transportation, road hierarchy, accessibility, walkability, comfort and safety. Improved visual communication grammar of zoning plan documents by using digital planning geospatial analysis tools, as well as raster-based software environments.

Undertook development management, assessment of planning consents, encouraging community and stakeholder engagement. Managed the zoning plan revision processes in various medium-sized settlements in Marmara Region. Evaluated, classified and interpreted the petitions of the communities to the previous plans and their expectations from the new plans. Coordinated the communication between the community, the planning office, and the local government.

Took on various duties in urban planning process management and inter-institutional relations. Coordinated communications with the Chamber of City Planners and municipalities for zoning plan approvals.

MIXED STUDIES: Research, Grass-roots Activism, Social Design & Art

Proposal for COST Action

Secondary Proposer

2022 - Present

Title: Naming in the Age of Metropolization

Main Proposer: Prof Frédéric Giraut, University of Geneva, Geography and Environment

The scientific challenge for the Action is to document and analyze the contemporary processes of place (re) naming in the context of six driving forces: metropolization, globalization, digitalization, commodification, heritagization and governmentality.

Will have a role adapting GIS technologies to toponymy analysis, combining historical-comparative, exploratory and explanatory research paths in a multimethod research process.

Walks for Spatial Justice

Curator, Author

2021

Project developer: Center for Spatial Justice / Istanbul, Turkey

Participated Curators: Jean-François Pérouse, Sinan Logie, Emrah Altınok, Cins Steps, Zafer Akay, Deniz Çalış Kural, Hakan Koçak, Mine Yıldırım, Simge Çil

Wrote a text, "In Praise of Walking", re-conceptualizing walking as a form of rebellion, a manifestation of the subject, who has seen "the possible" in the space and passed from the "virtual" to the "actual".

Proposed a "critical urban practice" that invites participants walking in Başakşehir, the podium of Istanbul's post-2000 urbanization, where the urbanization project of every hegemony period left traces. Organized walks and took part in a documentary film that follows the traces of overlapping strata through anthropogeographic panoramas of the outskirts of the city.

Used the practice of walking as a mode of critical research method and an artistic intervention to demystify the propaganda of the current hegemonic urban agenda.

Wiser Media

Curator, Author

2021 - Present

Curated creative content for a social curation platform that is opposed to algorithmic solutions of monopolistic social media spreading echo chambers and profiting from data smuggling.

Wrote thematic texts for his curations on various topics, such as ecological crisis, post-fascism, new capitalist strategies, critical theory, social design, solidarity economy, commoning, circularity, degrowth, and eco-socialism.

Solidarity for Participatory Planning and Design in Gülsuyu & Güleusu

Facilitator of Public Participation,
Voluntary Planner & Designer

2015 - Present

Partner: Güldam Neighborhood Solidarity Association

Participated as an activist in the existing solidarity process of Gülsuyu & Güleusu, once an Alevi ghetto, now an ethnically mixed but organized community that is under the threat of eviction by the neoliberal urban transformation agenda in Istanbul. From 2015 onwards, contributed to making the top-down process deflected into a bottom-up one with a community that has a strong counter-hegemonic culture. Facilitated the public participation process of underrepresented local initiatives who moved to the neighborhood due to the government policies of forced evacuation of Kurdish villages in the 90s, and were the subjects of police/military operations after the 1980 coup.

Enabled residents to become familiar with the complex terminology of the previous zoning plan, which produced the inflexible spatial policies that would guide the neighborhood renewal process concretely - translated it or made people speak it. Developed the language of representation to facilitate this translation, with three-dimensional visualizations and physical models.

Made it possible for a cross-disciplinary volunteer team to gather, that includes professionals from fields such as law, planning, urban design, architecture and art. The team enabled the municipal organization, which insisted on the classical - comprehensive planning approach, to revise solid planning strategies - in this way, the zoning plan evolved into a plan with the capacity to organize participatory planning and design processes.

Facilitated many focus groups, meetings, interviews, participatory planning and design workshops for and with the people of Gülsuyu & Gülsenü to oversee the feasibility of the new participatory planning framework.

Worked with volunteer architecture graduate students to convert the code and numerical language of planning standards and regulations into the spatial language of architecture so that the public could understand them.

Conducted on-site meetings for volunteer participants to learn from the existing material conditions, the quotidian relations, civic solutions to spatial challenges. After long-term design research, the team prepared an "urban design guide" that shows how the same planning code can generate both unqualified and qualified physical space standards. The guide has produced a resource that the neighborhood can use to demand better spatial solutions during the construction process, provided that it is accompanied by long-term social programs.

Gülsuyu & Gülsenü Social Research:
Towards an Inclusive Neighborhood
Renewal

Voluntary Consultant,
Research Coordinator

2019

Partner: Gülden Neighborhood Solidarity Association
Fund Support: Maltepe (District) Municipality

Designed research that adopts multimethodology to measure the perceptions and expectations of the people from the neighborhood renewal process, their capacity for public participation, their level of poverty and place attachment. Conducted a comprehensive survey with 1107 randomly selected households (95% of confidence interval, 2.5% of confidence level). Made focus group meetings with Muhtars, opinion leaders and activists from the neighborhood and in-depth interviews with randomly selected respondents from the survey's sample.

Converted survey responses into spatial data and used GIS tools for a clearer picture of the social reality as the performative capacity of people reacting to social and economic hardships in a squatter settlement. Adopted a critical realist mixed method rather than a monomethod quantitative approach that can only rely on dry data-analysis and techniques of statistical reasoning, supplemented the explanatory study by in-depth observation, comparative thinking, interpretative and interpersonal skills.

National Geographic Turkey
“Smart Cities: New Ideas for Livable Cities”

Expert View

2019

Supervised the National Geographic Turkey special issue with the theme “Smart Cities”. Interpreted Istanbul’s urban sprawl map that was published in the article “Shaping Cities”.

Children of Nilüfer Park

Project Volunteer

2014

Participated in the social responsibility project for Syrian refugee children aged between 5 and 17, organized in partnership with the Faculty of Architecture, ÇOÇA, Migration Studies Research Center, Department of Psychology and the District Governorship.

Istanbul Tourism Master Plan

Planning Team Member, Research
Coordinator, Author

2011 - 2013

Employer: Istanbul Metropolitan Municipality, Department of Reconstruction and Urbanization, Directorate of City Planning

Sub-Contractor: Yıldız Technical University Technology Transfer Center

Carried out research for the Istanbul metropolitan area, compiling the data inventory on the tourism sector and comparing the sector with world cities.

Undertook the orchestration of the research comprising a sample representing the tourist population entering the city, and a sample representing all Istanbul households (11,450 surveys in total), and hundreds of interviews in a metropolis with a population of 15 million.

Managed the process of conducting facility surveys at the scale of the metropolitan area to evaluate the data on typology, size, quality, capacity, utilization, spatial distribution of the existing tourism infrastructure.

Prepared separate surveys for tour operators, performing arts, libraries, visual arts, museums, accommodation, health, shopping, local and traditional markets, restaurants and catering, sports, fairs, entertainment, transportation, communication, and information opportunities. Directed the field research, interpreted and reported the data for a sample of 1326 selected from a total population of 31,880 institutions.

Organized three focus group meetings with the participation of the stakeholders, besides information obtained through literature, industry sources, statistical data, surveys, interviews and other field studies. Organized an “Idea Pool Structure”, two “Search Conferences” in order to discuss the potentials and challenges with cultural and creative industries, marketing experts, tourism investors and public sector representatives. Interpreted and reported the outcomes.

Facilitated the evaluation of research results for planning strategies at different scales - produced data visualizations, matrices, diagrams, etc. Supported the design of principles and strategies for Istanbul's tourism planning. Partnered to create a plan implementation model that would direct these strategies to the projects that define roles and responsibilities for different institutions and stakeholders.

Bodrum Peninsula - Geriřaltı Beach
Open Space Strategy

Research Coordinator, Author

2012

Partnership: *Yalıkavak Municipality and Istanbul Bilgi University
Faculty of Architecture*

Took part in the academic team established to develop design strategies for the coastal area of Yalıkavak-Geriřaltı Mahallesi.

Directed research measuring the urban sprawl dynamics and environmental carrying capacities in order to understand the ecological character of the peninsula.

Organized joint meetings and excursions with the municipality. Organized a workshop with the participation of the students of the Architectural Design graduate program.

Directed the workshops where the participants produced spatial strategies at different scales in the light of the data they obtained. Organized the public presentations.

Yenikapı Social Research

Field Research Coordinator
Researcher, Author

Took part in organizing qualitatively driven but quantitatively supported research for a district of whose history dates back to the Neolithic period.

Designed separate surveys with households and local businesses to measure the community's "place attachment", "poverty", "deprivation" levels and to reveal their expectations from the neighborhood renewal process. Interpreted the outcomes of multivariate quantitative research methods such as Factor Analysis and Correspondence Analysis.

Conducted in-depth interviews with men and women in different age groups. Evaluated and reported the qualitative data. Mapped the research results.

Helped to develop a Social Support Program for processes of solution research, public participation for renewal, development of the social programs, reconciliation management and monitoring, followed by the social research assessment.

Produced a model for periodic meetings with local actors. Researched grants, micro-credits, and other fund support packages for resource transfer to social projects.

Produced solutions to increase local government involvement in social programs such as poverty alleviation, empowerment, capacity building, and cooperation between the public and NGOs and community-based organizations.

Identified and proposed local initiatives and businesses in the neighborhood that are open to development, and problem groups as priority social project areas.

Istanbul Renewal Areas Cultural and Natural Heritage Conservation Board

Representative of the Chamber of City
Planners Istanbul Branch

2008-2009

Participated in the board's meetings, evaluated the urban renewal projects to be realized in the areas listed as UNESCO World Heritage.

Played an active role in predicting how large-scale urban infrastructure investments will affect the historical environment in the future.

Spatial Development Strategies for Istanbul's Action Planning: Research & Model for Neighborhood Renewal - The Case of Küçükbakkalköy

Planning Team Member, Researcher, Author

2005-2006

Employers: Istanbul Metropolitan Municipality, and BİMTAŞ

Conducted a comprehensive case study in order to draw lessons from the neighborhood renewal experiences in the world and in Turkey, and based on this, to determine principles and criteria for a renewal model proposal.

Took part in creation of a typology that would facilitate the design of neighborhood renewal in Istanbul.

Adapted the models and typologies to the example of Küçükbakkalköy District - determined the stages and projects.

AWARDS & HONORS

Gallipoli Peninsula National Park Design Competition

Honorable Mention

2014

Commissioned by Çanakkale Special Provincial Administration

Team Members: Aslıhan Demirtaş, Selin Maner, Ali Cindoruk, Koray Özgen, Emrah Altınok, Defne A. Akyol

Advisor Team: Sibel Bozdoğan, Çiğdem Maner, Naz Beykan

Explored the unstable local economy and environmental attrition caused by mass commemorative tourism and developed a planning vision for the transition from a dependent and abrasive development model to a slow and balanced rural development model with a diversified economy.

Developed an integrated tourism approach based on local identities and alternative tourism, reinforced by new itineraries.

Re-evaluated the national park entrances, proposed new transfer points, and a new organizational model. Reorganized the peninsula transportation system to schedule visits during peak periods. Invented new environmentally friendly, affordable, and comfortable public transportation types.

Produced projects and design strategies for the purposes of protecting the peninsula as a habitat, ensuring ecological balance and economic diversity, increasing equitable and mixed income opportunities for locals, making social and economic resilience and cultural sustainability possible.

Çanakkale City Square & Surroundings Urban Design Competition

Purchase Award

Undertook urban analysis and mapping, transportation and recreation planning and strategic urban design. Mapped the eco-social potentials from regional to urban scales.

Developed an Integrated Transportation and Sustainable Urban Development Model for the city.

Rıfat Ilgaz National Poetry Award

First Place

2003

The poetry book manuscript, "Aradaki" (Turkish for "In Between"), was published by Çınar Publishing in 2005 as part of the award. The same work had previously won "Honorable Mention" in Yaşar Nabi Nayır (2003) and "First Place" in Melih Cevdet Anday (2003), which are national poetry awards as well.

State-led Fragmentation: 'TOKİ' as an Ideological Apparatus for Spatial Reorganization of Social Classes

340x250 cm. wallpaper, panoramic photography, mapping, and data visualization.

The work exposed the inner contradictions of the current urban development "model" as applied in Istanbul. By promoting high end "prestige projects" over social housing, perpetuating the city's uncontrolled growth, destroying the city's ecological thresholds and northern forests, and forcibly relocating the urban poor through numerous "urban renewal" projects, the model has established a questionable legacy. The neoliberal landscape of mass housing consists of a new urban blight: fragmentation of urban space, degradation of social links, and segregation of social classes.

2009 - 2011

Captured approximately 180 faces of people residing Istanbul city for "Facity", an international photographic project initiated by Hannes Caspar, Kerem Ergün and Martin Wunderwald in 2008.

Investigated the topography of human face during the project that brought together differential subject categories thrown into a metropolitan jungle. A socially equalizing framework, based on the idea of watching the human face directly from the front, starkly crystallized the gaze and the emotions behind it.

Group Exhibition

March 01, 2021 - May 02, 2021

The photography series Art and City documents states of the art in different spatial-temporal conditions of three cities. The two-faced character of 'art' enters the frames not as a decor or an 'outsider' high art object embedded in urban space, but as an 'insider' agent that constantly reconstructs the palimpsest urban phantasmagoria.

The photography series, Now, Put Your Gender Down Slowly, aimed at the destruction of socially reinforced gender roles and aesthetic stereotypes that expect the body to obey them. The stereotypical features of the male / female appearance are minimized when only the face is focused.

Photographing the stark human face blurs the viewer's bias whether the model is male or female. Thus, a naked and direct "human" appearance is obtained. To complete the schema, the viewer must put their gender down slowly. shorturl.at/hlGL1
